Casio is a company that was started by Tadao Kashio in Japan after World War 2 in the year 1946. First they manufactured Cigarette Holders, moved on to calculators, created quite a stir, and then dived into watch-making. Since then, there is no looking back for Casio, and today Casio Watches are found worldwide and are considered finest amongst many others.

Since Casio earlier manufactured calculators, when they started with watches, in order to stand out, they installed mini-calculators in the dial which was a huge hit in their heyday, and these watches were used prominently by teachers and students as well. After this, Casio Timepieces always had a unique style and they delivered the most different and most sought after watches, with innovative styles.

Casio Watches always stood out, the different editions and collections of watches would provide its users with different time zones, weather details of different places with a thermometer and barometer installed watches that could set the alarm etc. A special collection of watches was launched for mountain climbers which displayed altitude along with the time.

Due to such exciting wristwatches, Casio Watches became the most favorable watches of all time and surpassed the other brands in true technology development. They also came up with a collection of watches known as the wave-ceptors, which could read the radio signals that would enable the watch to maintain the right time continuously.

Along with these highly advanced watches, Casio Timepieces also include other types, like the regular watches with leather and steel bracelets with different sizes and colors and different dials such as the Casio-G Shock watches for men and the Casio Baby-G Shock watches for women that can be used by everyone, casually or for work, or for other important social meetings or parties. These watches are used by the people who do not need to purchase watches with advanced technology. This line of Casio Watches is inexpensive and durable .
