Let us know why international students prefer the UK as their preferred study destination

Study in United Kingdom (UK) is home to some of the oldest universities and colleges in the world, dating back to the 12th and 13th centuries. Imminent from such a strong legacy, British education has become the standard for other republics.

Here are six reasons why studying in the UK is so popular with international students:

Academic excellence:

UK universities have some of the best academic standards in the world. Four of the top 10 universities in the world are from the UK [QS World Rankings 2019], including Oxford and Cambridge. Study abroad in the UK and you will find practical and practical knowledge more popular than textbook study. This will enable you to acquire critical thinking and analytical skills as well as creative abilities in your chosen subject.

Quality education:

The Quality Assurance Agency (QAA) is an independent body in the UK that regularly assesses the educational standards of all universities and colleges in the country. In addition to checking their performance through audits and subject reviews, it helps to identify best educational practices and send impromptu feedback. These research standards are also reviewed by UK higher education funding bodies and regularly publish their findings. This is to ensure that all students have access to the best quality study, research, and teaching, regardless of the course they choose to study.

Short course time:

Courses in the UK education system are shorter and more intensive than in many other countries, meaning you can graduate faster without compromising quality. While you can complete an undergraduate program in three years, you can complete a graduate program in just one year. This not only saves you time but also huge savings on tuition and living expenses.

Study and work:

To manage your daily living expenses and your studies, you can work part-time jobs of up to 20 hours per week during term time. You can even work full-time throughout term breaks. This will help you pay your bills and gain industry experience in your field of study.

Explore Europe while studying:

The UK is well connected to major European countries such as France, the Netherlands, and Belgium, ranging from 300 to 1,000 miles away. The airport is open 24 hours and you can explore different places while studying in the country.

Health benefits for students:

As an international student, you can access free medical care through the NHS while you study in the UK. To take advantage of this benefit, you will need to pay a small International Health Surcharge (IHS). Your IDP advisor can advise you on this detail.
